Early German Settlers Form Original Nucleus of Congregation

BY REV. G. A. KANZLER
Pastor Salem Evangelical Church

About 85 years ago Marion, like so many cities throughout the central states, became the home of German immigrants, who, because of their sympathies for the third position, no longer felt at ease in their Fatherland. With the failure of that heart demonstration movement of the years 1848 and 1849 in Germany, hundreds of thousands of her people came to help build a republic which in power, riches and achievements today is the world's greatest empire.

With the year 1820 immigrations from Germany began and continued in great numbers, totalling about 7,500, furnishing Marion many prominent citizens. In his history of Marion County by J. Walter Jacoby, the editor tells us that the pioneers of Marion came from various states of the east. Continuing he relates: "From far off Maine came the founder of Marion, and lords and most prominently they came from Pennsylvania—plain, simple Dutch stock, young and vigorous, to form a future home out of the virgin forests."

The subjects of our brief historic sketch indeed added their bit to the development of the city of Marion.

Origin of Church

Salem Evangelical Church was founded by German people who brought with them a deep appreciation of the Church of Jesus Christ and a devotion to religion, which challenges our highest admiration. Wherever German people located, in city or country, the church went with them.

If today the story of the building of that little church at 221 N. State-st, now occupied by the Seventh Day Adventists, could be told in detail, it would no doubt afford us numerous lessons of sacrifice and service. That church was the first spiritual home of German Protestant people in Marion. It was built in 1845, on lot 1, given by the founder of Marion for church purposes.

For two years prior to the erection of this church, Reverend Van Singer preached to the German Lutheran and Reformed people in the courthouse. These two church societies held their services in the little brick sanctuary at 221 N. State-st from 1845 to 1853, when the Salem congregation became the property of the Reformed people. The Salem Church therefore sold the church to the Baptists and bought a lot at 230 E. Church-st where upon the present church was erected and dedicated in 1856. In 1890 the property at 232 E. Church-st was bought and in 1891 a new parsonage was built, which still is serving its purpose.

Changes in Name

The name of this congregation was changed several times. In the beginning it was known as the German Lutheran church; in 1858 the name "Salem Evangelical Lutheran Church" was adopted; in 1884 this name was changed to "Salem Evangelical Church;" in 1894 the church elected to call itself "Salem Evangelical Protestant Church;" in 1897 the church voted to call itself "German and English Evangelical Protestant Salem Church" and was incorporated under that name in that year.

But the national body to which Salem belongs, has since eliminated both the "German and the English" from the title, therefore this congregation hence forth will be known as the Salem Evangelical Church.

TWENTY-THREE [illegible] clinched no by [illegible] vary's baseball players in two [illegible] games so far this year.

Gruber struck [illegible] in a stirring [illegible] gave them only one [illegible] collected a hit [illegible] another safety. [illegible] are Trinity Baptists [illegible] Second Sunday [illegible]

WALT DAVIS [illegible] pitched [illegible] a beautiful [illegible] pitcher's box [illegible] receiving the [illegible] allowed a [illegible] hit to second [illegible] retire Ely.

EITHER the Cleveland Indians are playing weeds [illegible] the Washington Senators are in desperate need of a rest. The Indians have taken the [illegible] from the Capital nine [illegible] as many days, bringing up their [illegible] among threats to [illegible] The Indians started hot [illegible] times by trimming the New York Yanks three in a row but now they can't be stopped.

Previous to this time, the Indians' greatest winning streak was three games.

CALVARY should defeat Trinity Baptists in the 25th Little World Series game Monday night but then, lots of things should happen.

A. C. CLEMENS, manager of the Butler State semi-pro baseball team, is throwing a feed for the boys of the Marion Hotel Monday night. Everybody's happy except two of the best players. Quick in Indianapolis and is afraid he can't get back in time to eat and the other's going to Columbus to employ himself at the State Fair Monday and will have to miss the banquet.

IF Norris, center fielder for the Sheets, plays the kind of ball he exhibited last night during the rest of this Little World Series, we pity the opposition. He just doesn't know what should be counted as a hit, so the Bolds 'em all, Texas Leaguers and the like.

IF Sheets and Calvary have to play two more games, they'll have to enlarge the seating capacity of Lincoln Park. A game between these two teams draw baseball fans like a vacuum cleaner.

RELEASE THOMAS

New York Giants Lose Promising Young Hurler; Leonis Acts

New York, Aug. 27—The New York Giants lost Fay Thomas, one of their promising young pitchers. Following the discovery that Thomas signed a contract with a minor league club before joining the Giants, he was suspended for the remainder of the season by Commissioner Landis and ordered to repay the Giants the $2,500 they gave him to sign a contract.

The case is an involved one. It seems that Thomas, with a group of fellow collegians from the University of California, found himself classified as Chapman, Jr., in the summer of 1925. Thomas, under the name of Collins, signed a contract with the Chanute Club of the Mississippi Valley League to obtain funds.

Many Local Fans To See Rivals Clash

MANY [illegible] will [illegible] have nothing [illegible] Tuesday [illegible] p. m. to [illegible] Independents [illegible] of one of the greatest [illegible] between [illegible] opponents. [illegible] will be there for [illegible] allowed a [illegible] fast to accord [illegible] rifice fly.

Manager Lynn [illegible] works [illegible] Lawrence Dare [illegible] Hallstedt and [illegible] for [illegible] grade innings before [illegible] stepped in and called a [illegible] ball [illegible] the Ring [illegible] Lynn [illegible] then [illegible] announced [illegible] Dare [illegible] to be preparing for [illegible] and Joe Sox. That [illegible] Sunday.

The duel is scheduled for Lincoln Park, Lodge Drive.

Lines Ready

Lynn fans are going wild about the coming battle and Marion enthusiasts are preparing to get waded. The Linn boosters admit [illegible] that a new pitcher will be on hand and several other shake ups will be evident, when the Lima team trots out on the field Sunday. That means that Bernie Hallstedt is looking for ahead and sees the fourth pack of victors in the discussion.

The Eagles are not looking up for the contest. They've gone after the Independents like wildcats and we're hoping they come home with that well known prize commonly called "Second." Lynn is attracting this season and a contest is expected to witness the battle between the two rivals.

TRINITY WILL PLAY CALVARY MONDAY

Sixth Game of Little World Series Here Next Week

With only one team eliminated in the fight for recreational ball honors of Marion, the sixth game of the Little World Series will get under way at 6:15, Monday night, when Calvary and Trinity Baptists, champs of the two Sunday School leagues, clash at Lincoln Park.

The second game of the week will feature Erie Office against the Steam Shovel Shops and the third contest will bring together the winners of Monday's and Wednesday's games. What will happen after that is not to be predicted. If a game is necessary the following week it will be played on Tuesday, rather than Monday, since Labor Day falls on the first Monday of that week. The game is likely to be necessary.

The Steam Shovel Shops are the only team to come through the first week of play without a defeat. They trounced the Eagles Wednesday night and defeated Calvary last night. Both victims were run down among the best in the city.

ALCROFT CHAMP

Youngstown Golfing Ace

Toledo, Aug. 27—Al Alcroft, Youngstown, today is wearing the Ohio open golf crown for the second successive year after defeating Jack Collins, Dayton, in an extra nine hole play here Friday.

At the end of four rounds of 18 holes, the champion and Collins were tied with 296. A birdie three made possible by a 25 foot putt on No. 7 green in the play-off enabled Alcroft, one of Youngstown's most remarkable golf and made him a second Ohio champion. The Youngstown player won five over Collins' 298 strokes when the second day play was started Friday.

HELEN WILLS WELL ON WAY TO CHAMPIONSHIP

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 27—Helen Wills, the invincible Wimbledon champion, has the Women's National Lawn Tennis championship for 1927 in the hollow of her hand. The redoubtable California girl finds her path made easy by the elimination of Mrs. Molla Mallory, eight times in 15 years the leading woman lawn tennis player of the country.

With Mrs. Mallory out of the tourney save the semi-final matches today and the ultimate battle for the title in the finals on Monday have lost much of their promised interest, although the culture of tennis shown by Miss Wills, Miss Helen Jacobs of California, Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin, of Boston and Miss Betty Nuthall of England, the semi-finalists, has been up to championship standard.

Perfect Comfort - -

The steering column is adjustable to suit your convenience

Buick for 1928 is extremely thoughtful of feminine comfort. One indication of this consideration is Buick's new steering column, which may be adjusted to the most comfortable position for women, as well as men.

And in addition, Buick for 1928 has a new steering wheel—slender to fit feminine fingers—yet deep and solid to provide the firm grip men demand.

Buick for 1928 pleases women because it is easier to drive—because it is more comfortable to ride in—because it is the style-leader among motor cars. That's why you see so many Buicks at fashionable gatherings, and on the smartest boulevards.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS MONUMENT AT INDIANAPOLIS

Soldiers' and sailors' monument, the heart of Indiana's capital, and insets of D. C. Stephenson on the witness stand during a case after months of imprisonment, and former governor Warren T. McCray.

XV

BY BONITA WITT

ANOTHER perplexed chapter of Indiana's political dilemma has been handed public.

Former Governor Warren T. McCray, of Indiana in federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., has refused to confirm or deny a story that he was obliged immunity from prosecution in state courts if he would appoint a prosecutor in Marion county whom the Klan, under D. C. Stephenson, could control instead of Williams H. Remy, the present prosecutor. According to a story published in Indianapolis and to which Governor Ed Jackson did not issue a denial, he, as secretary of state, is said to have carried the offer to McCray.

This is said to have taken place shortly before McCray's indictments for fraud in Marion county in certain personal financial ventures. A jury freed him. But he later was convicted and sentenced in federal court in Indianapolis for using the mails to defraud.

William M. Evans, McCray's son-in-law, rather than prosecute McCray in the Marion county courts, had tendered his resignation.

McCray, although he realized he soon would be under indictment, is quoted as saying: "I have lost my money, I may lose my office, I may lose my liberty, but I have not reached a point where I would barter public office or this nature."

Remy was appointed prosecutor, later being elected by the voters. McCray, going to prison, had saved the office from Stephenson.

It is considered likely that the ex-governor may give out some sort of a statement if he is released from prison this autumn at the expiration of his indictment term which has frequent sentence.

It is John L. Duvall, Indianapolis mayor, who has been in the limelight more than Stephenson recently. Duvall has been under charges of failure to report all his campaign contributions. The mayor's brother, William C. Duvall, city controller, also was arrested on the same charges, brought by Prosecutor William H. Remy, and released on bond.

Duvall's administration has been a turbulent one, marked by frequent clashes between the mayor and his employes. There have been some 30 "resignations" since Duvall took office and at least 50 other employes are said to have lost their jobs during August and September in 1926.

He has been in office since 1925.

One of the men whose resignation was requested by Duvall was that of Alvah G. Rucker, corporation counsel, the man whom many contend is back of the resolution to impeach the mayor introduced into the council recently. Rucker, as a lawyer, was retained by the councilmen to draw up the resolutions.

"The mayor, from his desk at city hall, says, regarding the resolutions: 'The charges are absurd; no one takes them seriously, and I am going interested in doing no work than wasting time in discussing them.'"

Railways Prepared for Big Passenger Traffic to State Fair During Coming Week

Special Rates Offered by C., D. & M. and Hocking Valley Expected To Result in Large Patronage from Marion; Schedule of Rates Is Announced

[illegible] Fair at Columbus.

The Hocking is offering special [illegible] day round trip rate to Columbus [illegible] and return on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, while the C., D. & M. offers special round trip rates starting Monday and running Friday, with tickets purchased at low rates good for return as late as Sunday, Sept. 4.

The Hocking Valley announces service of two through trains Marion at 7:11 a. m. and arrives at Union Station, Columbus, at 8:30 a. m. Returning, during State Fair Days, Westbound trains leave Columbus at 7:50 p. m. and 11:27 p. m. and Fridays at 11:55 p. m. only. Rates offered by the Hocking are listed this week [illegible] for the round trip rates.

Good on Any Car

The special C., D. & M. rates are good on any car going to Columbus from Marion, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. It is not necessary for the purchaser of the round trip ticket to take the same train. Tickets are good for return as late as Sunday, Sept. 4.

Excursions and special rates last year drew hundreds of Marion fair goers who took advantage of the low prices.

Expect Increase

More freight traffic through Marion to the Great Lakes is predicted with the completion of the Chagrin double track between Chagrin and Valley Crossing, just south of Columbus, joining the Hocking Valley Railroad with the Chesapeake & Ohio. The new spur was constructed at a cost of approximately $1,000,000 and was opened for use a few days ago.

As a result of the development, according to W. H. Fisher, general passenger agent of the Hocking Valley, the carrying capacity of the company will be almost double within a few years. Increased facilities, bigger payrolls and general prosperity also will result, he states.

With the Hocking Valley direct route to the Great Lakes through this city and the Chesapeake & Ohio connected with it just south of Columbus, freight traffic through Marion over the Hocking is expected to reach much larger proportions within the next few years.

Construction of the new spur was in charge of William Michel, chief engineer, who has been in the employ of the Hocking for 42 years. As many as 15 to 20 steam shovels and several thousand laborers were employed.

Long Service

Forty-five years in the employ of the Hocking Valley is the record boasted by James Wood, who is at present freight master at the depot in Colli-

Daily Proverb: When there is no wood the fire goeth out.—Proverbs 26:20.

After all, who would want to be married to a person who is perfect?

Possibly it might help Leap Year if the Kent Normal school had a course in the study of flirtation.

"The spirit of confidence," says the Boston Transcript, "is evidenced in the way local building augmented by Massachusetts votes and towns." We can not recall hearing much anything even remotely like that in Ohio lately in a great number of years.

Berlin, this week, decided once to the agent general for the reparations account 125,000,000 gold marks, the interest on the German industrial bonds for the second half of the current year. Dr. Dawes seems to have prescribed the proper medicine for what was ailing Germany.

A New York City widow said to be fifty-eight and wealthy, has married a man of half her age, from which it may be seen that a sex has a monopoly on folly.

The identity tests instituted by Chief of Detectives O'Connor are driving gangsters and gunmen out of Chicago, which is a fine thing for Chicago and at the same time a hardship on the rest of the country. Chicago doesn't seem any more inclined to handle her criminals at her own expense than she does her sewage.

One of the two sisters who danced with John Coolidge out in Yellowstone National park, where they are "waiting on tables" during their vacation from the Kansas State Teachers' college at Pittsburgh, Kansas, told the newspaper reporters: "We are from Leona, Kansas. Our home is in the country six and a half miles from town. Our father is a farmer, and there is no place like home. Don't worry about the farmers. We have two cars and a radio and all we want." Haven't the Misses Smith, the two girls in question, let the cat out of the bag?

By-elections having been won by two government candidates, this week, the Cosgrave government now has a majority in the Dail Eireann. Manifestly the Irish Free Staters do not propose to take any chances on Eamon de Valera getting back into power and mussing things up again.

The Chicago city council is considering legislation to enforce the use of rubber tires on all milk wagons to deaden their rattling over the paved streets in the early-morning hours. If the Chicago milkmen take along barking dogs as some of them do hereabouts, we can not see what difference a little extra wheel rattling could make.

Pierre De Malgalon, president of the French chamber of commerce in New York City, ridicules the idea that communists are going to stop the French from welcoming the members of the American legion, remarking that "the demonstrations in Paris no more represented French opinion than the criticisms made by Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, concerning King George and the English people represented American sentiment." Mr. Malgalon might have traveled far and wide and not picked up any more illuminating illustration than that.

A Fine Man and Citizen Gone.

And so Joe Bindley is dead; bright shadowy Joe Bindley! Time had at last to be. We are going to miss him. We have a feeling that we are going to miss him more and more as the weeks and months pass.

Josiah Bindley was our idea of a good citizen, a good husband and father, a good man. And as he appealed to us, we believe he appealed to our citizenship generally. He was the kind of a citizen who makes the city to which he lived more worth living in than another. He was active in local business affairs, interested in many local enterprises. He could be found in every new forward movement always doing his part, and many times more to give freely, not only of his money, but far more, of his time and energy. Many of our most successful men will be quick to tell you that Joe Bindley was responsible for many of the movements during the past years that have developed certain of their business interests upon the basis of what we have now. We will miss him as he appeared in the civic movements with which he worked.

His enthusiasm [illegible] interrupted in [illegible] turn to active [illegible] the same briskly, [illegible] had learned to know [illegible] was sunshine and [illegible] and his friendship [illegible]

And now he is [illegible] of his manhood. The [illegible] citizen can not be other than a [illegible] the community in which [illegible] as such. We feel it as the [illegible] we have a feeling of personal [illegible] loss that can not be replaced.

Let's Assure Storm-Water Relief.

The situation is local in an emergency sense, of course, and nothing else can grow on it. We may be all wrong. It is possible that the proposed new pave let on overwhelming vote, but we doubt, poignantly enough, if the voters of Marion will authorize such a bond issue as they know the money is to be used. We doubt if they will vote to give the city officials blanket authority to expend such a sum unless they know where it is to go. If such a sum is to be authorized, as we see it, the authorization will come only when the voters of Marion have been taken into the confidence of the city officials and given an outline of the channels to which the money is to be directed. They will want to know how much of the great sum is to be expended for storm-water drainage and where such drains are to be constructed, how much in sanitary sewers and how much in sewer connection. As we stated, we do not believe they will ever authorize a bond issue of the size contemplated if they are left in the dark upon these subjects. They are entitled to all the light which can be offered.

We want to see all parts of Marion provided with adequate storm drainage. We have sometimes thought that much of our local storm-water trouble was due to insufficient connections rather than lack of capacity of our storm-water mains. But for this year. At time we need still more big storm-water sewers; let us have them at the lowest possible cost consistent with good construction. Let us not expend a dollar unnecessarily.

A few days ago, addressing a local organization, Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, banker and business expert, told us that industries do not seek locations where the tax rates are going upward; that industries go where taxes are on the downward trend. And it was and is the truth, a truth which we should keep in mind at all times. If we are to attract industry from the outside, we must keep our tax rate down, and this can not be done by unnecessary outlay.

Keeping this in mind, the active proponents of the bond issue should demonstrate to the voters of Marion that the volume of the expenditure they propose is necessary, which they can best do by going into the details regarding their plan of expenditure. It is up to them to sell their plan to the public, and that can best be done by taking the public into their confidence along the lines indicated.

The Star of Washington announces that that city has had the coolest August since 1899. And Mr. Coolidge out in the Black hills? Looks like another slogan now.

Wisdom in the Gary Will.

The publication of the will of the late Elbert H. Gary develops that the testator set out there, in certain rules and admonitions for the guidance of his heirs and those which come after them which are worthy of the utmost consideration.

Admittedly, Judge Gary was one of the keenest business men of his time, one of the recognized business leaders of his generation. Hence the advice he thus has left for his loved ones should prove equally good for all, and especially for those without business experience worthy the name. The judge says:

"I earnestly request my wife and children and their descendants that they scrupulously decline to own any bonds or obligations of any kind or nature by any other person or persons or corporations than such as are specifically approved by counsel in whom they have confidence, and that they refrain from participating in any promotions or speculations, and that they invest only in such securities as conform to the rules of good business practice."

Which is good advice for all of us

Now Go on with the Story

CHAPTER XXXIII

In the instant of time while Princess Ivan Iwolski kept her face averted as the Ethiopian maid left the room, Vee-Vee had come to many of the probable reasons that might have influenced the resignation of her rival doctor. Her instinct had been to say nothing that she was not the woman she believed her to be; that they would be able to get her out from the Castle Dull forever and ever.

But as the princess slowly gripped her arm the sure knowledge of success and the high key mood from that it was necessary herself to them as Vera Vivian Cameron, and even though they had abducted a nobody, she was not going to be intimidated with her for having played them that they would not hesitate to kill her.

She dragged herself to her dressing table and sank down upon one of the low, straight upholstered stools that served the cabin as chairs. She realized now that the corner of the mirrored stand was still a protective shield for her face, that the prince had as yet seen little more than her eyes and hair, and had not heard her voice. She propped her elbows upon her knees and buried her powdered face in her hands.

"Vivian, my darling!" Prince Ivan called solicitously. "Won't you drink some coffee? We really must talk things over, but I suppose you are very tired. It is not time yet to be alert. I have been expecting you to fly at me the very minutes. And I really should not blame you," he added, with a most flattering finish. "This is so different from what I had planned. Do you remember this cabin, my dear? Shall we sit down on the bunk here, I give you my word."

Vee-Vee did not answer in words, but she shook her head, still bowed in her hands.

"What, no kiss? You don't remember? This is the little bunk where we [illegible] together shortly after our marriage—before you had learned to love me, Vivian," he added softly. "I am sure then that it was an ideal [illegible] that if you ever turned on me I would kidnap you and [illegible] you have married me for love. You forgive me, I am sure. You know I had to have the courage. But I knew the courage. Vivian, when you [illegible] late for dinner. You were [illegible]. Is that the woman in the world would [illegible] I have. And [illegible]

"Yes, I see—more than you think," said, slowly, significantly. "And at I beg is making my last days very [illegible]. No, that I blame you, Marguerite have endured more than any woman has a right to put up with. I am glad that feeling the way you do it is so to bring you great satisfaction and freedom from me as you think."
